

The throw() Exception Specifier Exercises

The No-throw Guarantee

- What is meant by the no-throw guarantee?
- Why is this useful?
- To what extent does C++ provide this guarantee?

The No-throw Guarantee

- In older versions of C++11, which keyword is used to promise that a function does not throw any exceptions?